SWIMMING TEAM TRIALS HELD YESTERDAY AUGUR WELL FOR THE SUCCESS OF THE TRIP

Pennsylvania Saturday Night--Yale Monday Night--Brooklyn Wednesday Night

FINE SHOWING MADE IN FINAL CONTESTS BY ALL THE MEN

Fast Times Again Credited to Hodgson and Draper--Paterson Going Well

The McGill Swimming Team held their trials yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. tank. Three heats were run in the fifty yard dash, and the times of the first five men were as follows:—

Hodgson	25 3-5
Draper	27 1-5
McGill	27 1-5
Williamson	30 3-5
Smith	30

McKay was unable to compete as he has a slight cold and he did not want to take any chances. He will be alright for the meet on Saturday anyway. McKay's time in the Y.M.C.A. bath three days ago was 27 1-5 seconds and it can be seen from this that he is fully as fast as Draper and McGill.

The 220-yard race was not held as it was thought advisable not to force the men to extend themselves any more than was absolutely necessary. For the same reason the 100 yards was not held.

The team will leave tomorrow night and swim against Pennsylvania on Saturday night. On Monday night they swim against Yale and on Wednesday night, Brooklyn. The McGill entries on the occasion of their meet

Rankin Better and May Line Up Against Varsity

The hockey squad left last night for Toronto, eleven men being taken along. Ramsay Rankin who has been laid up all week was up and about yesterday, showing almost no ill effects from his illness.

He left last night with the team and will likely start out against Varsity, but if he is unable to stand the going will retire and Gray will drop back to the defence. The latter is a first-rate defence player and, in fact, played point for McGill before being shifted to the forward line so the change if it becomes necessary will not seriously weaken the team. It is not definitely known as yet how the forwards will line up but Thompson and Wilson are certain for the centre positions, while Sargent will probably cop the left wing position, and, as Cakie Smith has been going great guns lately he looks the boards. Since the opening of the new Arena in Toronto the Varsity team have been playing their game on Saturday afternoons and the fact that their game with the St. Mikes drew the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game of hockey in Toronto makes it look as if the move had produced a timely boom in Intercollegiate hockey in the Queen City. From all indications Varsity and McGill are due to play to a capacity crowd to-morrow.

PROFESSOR SKELTON, EMINENT AUTHORITY ON SOCIALISM ADDRESSED THE CANADIAN CLUB

Large Gathering Assembled to Hear Famous Queens Man on the Controversial Subject

WELLKNOWN SPEAKERS ADDRESS TO-DAY THE LIBERAL ADHERENTS

Meeting to be Held in Strathcona Hall--Open to the Public

This afternoon in Strathcona Hall, the Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King will address the Liberal Party, on the question of the Navy Bill and other current issues of the day.

Mr. A. R. McMaster, the eminent lawyer of this city, will also address this meeting. The fact of having these two prominent speakers to address the gathering should be an assurance of a large attendance.

The "Daily" suggests that all men, irrespective of Party affiliation, should try and get around to this meeting and thus be somewhat more prepared for the sitting of the Mock Parliament on Tuesday.

The meeting is to start at 5 p.m. sharp and the speakers should be greeted by a large crowd.

The Janitor of the Engineering Building has about fifteen note-books which have been found lying around in the building. Students who have lost note-books are requested to call and see if theirs is amongst the ones which the janitor has.

AUDIENCE RECEIVED MANY POINTERS IN REGARD TO SOCIALISM

Questions Answered and Clouds of Doubt Dispelled

The meeting held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club was a most successful one. A good number of the students turned out to hear Professor Skelton of Queen's University, whom they had all heard of as an authority on Socialism. Owing to the recent arguments on this subject which had taken place here at our University the subject was of more than ordinary interest to the students.

Mr. Walsh was in the chair, and opened the meeting by a neat speech in which he introduced the speaker to the audience.

Professor Skelton commenced his lecture by stating that he subject was not Socialism as a whole; but Socialism on the Instalment Plan. He said that he would treat the subject from one or two limited aspects as the subject was one which could not possibly be crowded into the short space of time he had in which to speak to us. Some of the chief points of Professor Skelton's speech are given. That many people are now taking up Socialism just be-

Among our exchanges to-day we received the British Columbia Magazine. First-class Canadian Magazines are all too few; we are content to secure our lighter reading matter from the Mother Land or the other side of the border. It is therefore a cause for congratula-tion when we find, here in Canada, magazines worthy of a place on the library table. The British Columbia Magazine undoubtedly is.

This magazine is edited by Dr. Frank Buffington Vrooman and is improving with every issue. It is just a little bit different from the other current magazines which come to our table and has an appeal due to this individuality. We publish extracts from this magazine in another column of our paper which will serve to give our readers an idea of the unusualness of this publication. The poem, Drake's Drum, is worthy of more than passing attention.

To-morrow will be an eventful day in the history of athletics at McGill. The senior hockey team will strive to down the wearers of the Varsity colors on the Toronto Arena. A victory over the Torontonians will mean that McGill will have an excellent chance to retain the honors which were so worthily won. A loss will mean—well we are not going to talk about the unpleasant prospect the thought brings. We have every confidence that the team will take care that such a disaster does not occur.

To-morrow evening the Swimming Team will take part in the first meet of their American trip. All signs point towards a successful outcome. Never has a Mc-Gill team worked harder to round into shape and they carry with them the best wishes of all McGill men when they leave to-night.

This evening the Basketball Team will play against the fast Varsity quintette and the struggle is sure to be a keen and a close one. Varsity have a strong team and are confident of success. We, however, are equally sure of the abilities of Captain Calder and his men. The champions are in fine form and can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves.

would be a great number of servants and as under the present administration these people were not allowed to take an active part in politics, there must necessarily be some change in the law. It would not be fair to have a very great number of the citizens of the country unable to take any part in politics. Prof. Skelton continued, saying that at the present time Private Property was on the defensive. Prof. Skelton clearly showed that the radical Socialists of the present day were doing the very best thing possible to not attain the end they had in view. He pointed out that the people who proposed to deal with the child labour problem and the taxation and curbing of the Capitalist were doing the very things necessary to set matters straight so that Socialism would not be required.

At the conclusion of Prof. Skelton's speech Mr. Bruneau rose and moved a vote of thanks. Mr. Bruneau said that he himself had a much clearer idea of the subject and was sure that all those present knew a great deal more about socialism than they had known before they came to this meeting. Mr. McCrimmon seconded the vote of thanks in a few very well chosen words. Mr. Walsh then stated that Prof. Skelton would gladly answer any question in relation to Socialism that any of the students might see fit to ask.

Mr. Bruneau rose and asked if the lecturer would be kind enough to explain the difference between Christianity and Socialism.

Prof. Skelton explained that there was practically no connection between the two. He stated that Socialism was an economic theory, but he also pointed out that what led many people to believe that there was something common to them was the fact that the church in Europe, especially, had always taught the poorer classes to be satisfied with their lot and that they would be repaid in the afterlife. The church was right, he said, in taking an interest in Social Reform as well as the Reform of Individuals.

Prof. Stephen Leacock made a short speech in which he said that he was very pleased at being present to hear such a clear and lucid talk on this misunderstood subject. He congratulated Prof. Skelton on the fine way in which he had condensed such a tremendous subject and had still been able to make everything perfectly simple.

The meeting broke up when the students showed their appreciation of Prof. Skelton's kindness in giving this interesting talk, by giving the Queen's yell.

MCGILL WINS AGAIN INTERMEDIATES BEAT NORTH END Y.M.C.A.

Combination Weak—Individual Men Played Exceedingly Well—Hovey Starred for McGill

The M.A.A.A. on Wednesday evening was the scene of a very fast and keenly contested game of basketball between the McGill Intermediates and the North Branch of the Y. M. C. A.
The McGill team finally won out by the narrow margin of 28-25.

The first half saw some fast and strenuous play and although McGill seemed to be playing their hardest the Y.M.C.A. crept into the lead and the half time whistle blew with the score 15-13 in their favour.

Play in the second half was very even. McTavish shot well and Upham although rather weak in shooting he worked in some very useful combination. Hovey, as usual, played a very energetic game at centre and the defence held up their end well.

North Branch got in some pretty and effective combination and if the McGill combination does not improve the return match on February first will undoubtedly be even closer.

The McGill line-up was as follows:
Forwards—Upham and McTavish.
Centre—Hovey.

Defence—E. Busby and M. Busby.

Patterson strained his neck in the a great deal of chance of McGill men winning the plunge as the American teams are all strong in this event.

However, the McGill team can be trusted to give a good account of themselves in everything else.

The times made today were in the slowest bath in the city and afford a poor means of comparison with the times made by the other universities. Through the generosity of the undergraduates the team will be able to go at full strength and are certain to acquit themselves well.

The meets with Pennsylvania and Yale will be the two hardest. The former team is especially strong.

Accounts of all the team's meets will appear in the "Daily" the following morning.

FREAKS

"Resolved that every man who dares propose marriage to a woman during leap year be punished by one year's confinement to prison," is the sweeping subject for debate which a serious-minded woman suggested to extension workers of Wisconsin University.

Among other freak things which are brought to the notice of the university officials the Wisconsin News tells the following:

"Not long ago a doting father wrote to the University, asking what inducement the institution would offer his son to attend Wisconsin and
'put the varsity on the athletic map.'
He declared that his son was an excellent all round athlete and that his services ought to be worth a liberal compensation. If the University were willing to propose a reasonable proposition he would be willing to 'dic-ter' with them."—Exchange.

cause they think that it is inevitable and that they might just as well be in-the-swim. He emphasised this point very clearly and showed that throughout all ages there would always be a mass of people who would act in this way.

There are two ways of looking at the question of Socialism, either from the point of view, as to what the socialist and social reformer of the present day will accomplish; or whether the movement is an inevitable one. The latter view was the one which Professor Skelton took in his speech. He spoke about Government ownership, and stated that he considered the Public Regulation was only transitory where as he thought Public Management would be lasting.
He also showed very clearly that the amount of public property had not increased in proportion to private property in the least. Prof. Skelton then took up a very good point, namely, if very many industries came under Public Management, there

JERRY BENTHAM EDDIE BURKE AND JACK LOCKE RETOLD

Historical Club Discuss English Men of Letters

English Publicists was the general heading under which three papers were read last night at the Historical Club. The meeting was well attended, and the papers were, if anything, a little above an already high average.

The first paper read was by Mr. Harold R. Griffith on Edmund Burke. The substance of his paper is briefly given as follows:—

One of the most interesting characters in British political history is Edmund Burke, who was born in Dublin about 185 years ago. He entered Parliament during the Ministry of Lord North in the opening years of the quarrel with the American colonies. His great ability and powerful speeches soon attracted the notice of the nation, and he rose to a high position in the Whig party. Burke ever remained opposed to the autocracy of George III and the willing servility of the government of Lord North. His speech on "Conciliation with America" ranks among the gems of English literature. He conducted the trial of Warren Hastings with a quite unprecedented determination. The later years of his political life were marred by vehement and unreasoning denunciation of the French Revolution. Burke was never a popular orator although we have now come to regard his speeches and writings as among the best in the language.

The second paper read was on Locke, and was read by Mr. Harry Beatty. Locke was born in 1638. He was educated at Westminster and at Oxford where he took both his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He had the choice of three courses which he could follow on graduating: the church, medicine or diplomatic service. The church was his first thought, but it was never very seriously considered. Medicine he considered, was more suited to him. This he studied, and was an excellent physician all his life.

A friendship between himself and Lord Ashley, afterwards Lord Shaftesbury, however brought him into the diplomatic service. He held several important offices while Lord Shaftesbury was in favor, but on his disgrace he was obliged to leave England and fled to Holland. During his life he wrote several valuable essays and took an important part in English economic life. The final paper was read by Mr. Morrison on Bentham. The picture presented of Bentham was perhaps the most interesting of the three. Certainly Bentham himself was a most peculiar character. He was one of those youthful geniuses who flourished in the days gone by, reading Latin and Greek before he could walk. When he grew up he essayed law, but gave up in disgust. He retired to seclusion and devoted his life to literary work. He wrote on political science were perhaps a little ahead of his time, but nevertheless, they had an important influence.

SLIDE RULE SLIPS DENOUNCE THE FIRST FLOOR BACKS

The Bunsen Burners Also Receive Their Share of the Attack—Consternation is Ripe

While the Editor was engaged in looking over the day's news, a knock was heard on the Sanctum door, and a delegation of bearded stalwarts entered the room. Somewhat mystified he had at first great trouble in finding out what they wanted. Incoherent mutterings and threats at first filled the air, but after a few soothing words were uttered by the editor they regained their customary calmness, and one giant stepped forward and after wrestling mightily with his emotions, spoke. It appeared that they were members of that famous athletic organization known to the sporting fraternity at large as "The Slide Rule Slips." Highly indignant to think that the "First Floor Backs" should presume to consider themselves in the same class they had come to make plain their emphatic protest, and they did too, "in no uncertain voice."

Until the unknown quantities of the Upper Flights had proven their skill and courage by feats of body and mind, the "Slide Rule Slips" refuse to recognize them except as "would-be's" twice removed.

After the deputation had, through the medium of their spokesman, told the Editor what they thought of those presumptuous ones who dared to dispute their authority, they requested the Editor to produce, if he had any, all such correspondence received in connection with the Bunsen Burners.

As none was forthcoming, the horizon was black again. Scraps of conversation were heard now and again about "any place," "any time," "the sidewalk or the campus," and so on, some of which would scarcely be printable. The leader inquired if the Burners were "crawling" but the question remained unanswered.

Finally, the emotional party withdrew, not, however, without casting many reflections and insinuations on the character and business ability of the Bunsen Burners.

As the representatives of the 'Slide Rule Slips' had a very dark and determined manner, it is sincerely hoped that "The Blue Flamers" will be heard of in the near future, and thus put a stop to the dire omens that have been so apparent of late.

CLASS HISTORIAN AND POET ELECTED BY MEMBERS OF 1913

Graduating Officers Settled Yesterday Afternoon

Yesterday afternoon in Strathcona Hall, at a well attended meeting the class of 1913 met and elected their class historian and other officers. Nineteen thirteen are to be congratulated on their choice, for we feel sure that no one could better uphold the fame and prestige of this class. Those elected are as follows:

Class Orator—John Macnaughton, Law '13.

Poet and Soothsayer.—Bruneau, Arts '13.

Class Historian—Ritchie Donald, Science '13.

The church was his first thought, but it was never very seriously considered. Medicine he considered, was more suited to him. This he studied, and was an excellent physician all his life. Box, the centre man of Queens senior hockey team, will likely be out of the game for some time, due to having his thumb broken in the game in Montreal, on Friday evening. The doctor advised him to stay out of the game for a couple of weeks. This will mean a big loss to the team if he will not be available for the game against 'Varsity, on Jan. 28th.

The hockey game between 'Varsity and Queen's which was to have been played last Tuesday will be played next Tuesday, Jan. 28th, if the ice is in a fit condition by that time.

The Senior Hockey Squad is taking no chances of being short of spares. They are even taking two goal-keepers along, a rather unusual proceeding for a hockey team.

THINGS THEATRICAL

HIS MAJESTY'S

The coming of the famous Irish Players from the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, to His Majesty's Theatre next Monday, under the management of The Liebler Company, promises one of the most interesting engagements of the dramatic season in Montreal.

The fame of Irish Players is country-wide throughout Great Britain, and the brilliant achievements of this remarkable organization has commanded the highest praise during their two American tours. The purpose of the founders of The Irish Players, which comprised Lady Gregory, W. B. Yeats, Edward Martin and a few other representative Irish men and women, was to create a movement through which Ireland would give a distinct drama to the world. Though there were many prejudices and difficulties to overcome in the early career of the organization, their ultimate success was beyond even the strongest hopes of its founders. The splendid native plays of their repertoire and their simple but brilliant interpretation by the members of the company, have brought The Irish Players to-day to a unique position—as the true exponents of a purely National Theatre in the world.

The plays in the repertoire of The Irish Players by W. B. Yeats, Synge, Lady Gregory, William Boyce and St. John G. Irvine depart altogether from the type of drama made known by Bourcault. These modern Irish dramatists have taken their models and their scenes direct from Irish life itself—a life rich in dramatic material. The delicious humor and quaint truth of these plays dealing with old, forgotten far-off things, bring before us a state of life and thought existing in Ireland with which the most of the world is totally ignorant.

The plays announced for the engagement of The Irish Players at His Majesty's include the most interesting works of their repertoire. On Monday and Tuesday evenings and Wednesday matinee Synge's comedy, "The Playboy of the Western World" will be given, preceded by "Spreading the News," a brilliant comedy by Lady Gregory. "The Playboy of the Western World" is, perhaps, the most famous offering of the Irish Comedy. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings a most interesting contrast in three plays, by Synge, Bernard Shaw and Lady Gregory is announced. The first is "The Shadow of the Glen," a little Irish comedy in which Synge depicts in nature-true tones an episode in the lives of a man and woman living in a lovely home in one of the glens of Wicklow. "The Shewing up of Blanco Posnet" is said to be one of this brilliant dramatists clearest plays; the third comedy is "The Rising of the Moon," by Lady Gregory. On Friday and Saturday evenings the programme will be "The Workhouse Ward," by Lady Gregory, and "Mixed Marriage," a comedy by St. John G. Irvine.

Latham, reporting to Sergeant—"Officer, there's a horse down on Kenosha street."

Sergeant—"All right, write out your report."

Latham (laboriously)—"How do you spell Ke osha?"

Sergeant—"That's your report—I'm not information bureau."

Latham snatched his hat and started for the door.

Sergeant—"Where are you going, Latham?"

Latham—"I am going to drag that horse down to Eighth street."—Ex-change.

of the House, before Friday night.

This rule is definitely stated on the cards which have been circulating for the past week. The impression got abroad that this time limit would be extended, but such is not the case. At a conference of leaders held yesterday it was decided to adhere strictly to the published rules.

This step was taken in order that the Clerk might prepare the official lists for next Tuesday. These lists will be printed for public verification in Monday's Daily. Cards should be left at Arts Building up to 4 o'clock or at the Union up to 10 o'clock, addressed to Hugh B. Griffith.

The debate which is scheduled for Tuesday will in all probability be the most important of the session, dealing as it does with the Naval Bill.

In order that the debate may be carried on fairly and expeditiously it has been suggested that some pre-arranged list of speakers be agreed upon.

With this in view the leader of the Liberal Party has requested that the leaders of the Conservative, Socialist and Independent parties be invited to meet him in conference this afternoon.

The place and time suggested are Strathcona Hall at 4.45 p.m. The results of this conference will be made public at the meeting addressed by the Hon. Mackenzie-King, which takes place in the Hall at 5 p.m.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS
MEN MEET AND FORM
ENTHUSIASTIC CLUB

Students from that Historic Part of the Dominion Display Great Loyalty

Yesterday afternoon, in Room B, Strathcona Hall, those men who hail from the Eastern Townships, Quebec, met and formed a very energetic club.

In spite of the many counter attractions, there were about thirty men there, and the Club bids well to become a great success. Nothing much beyond the election of officers was discussed, though many important questions were brought up, and another meeting is to be called in the near future to further as far as desirable the organization and aims of the Club. The element of enthusiasm is certainly not lacking, and this Club promises to take its place in the foremost rank of Student Organization here at McGill.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: President, H. P. Honey; vice-president, Russell Bradford; secretary, A. M. Jenks; Treasurer, Rex. Hovey.

THE RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Will all those men who possess rear and middle sights belonging to the Association kindly return them to Arts Building or leave them with the Hall Porter in the Union before one p.m. today.

Owing to the arrangements for the M.A.A.A. Smoker on Saturday night next, 25th, it has been found necessary to alter the hours for the gym-class and the Junior basketball practice for that day.

The basketball team will practice from 2 to 3, and the 'gym' class will be held from 3 to 4.15.

TO GRACIA.

(By Frank Buffington Vrooman.)

I pluck this little star and send thee, Sweet;
In the Sky Hills an hour ago it grew
I saw it growing and I thought of you
And plucked it as I sat in camp at meat.

Sky Hills! a fitting place for weary feet
To rest betimes and loving hearts to woo;
To pluck white stars from hills of heavenly blue
And send love-kisses from solitude's retreat.

I would pluck stars for thee one long life through,
I would win worlds—earn fame and treasure trove,
I would dare death to keep this promise true,
Defy the torrent's wrath and mountain's move.

But should I fail in what I strive to do
I promise thee my everlasting love.

DRAKE'S DRUM.

Drake he was a Devon man an' ruled the Devon seas:
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?)

Rovin' tho' his death fell, he went with heart at ease,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.

"Take my drum: to England, hand et by the shore,
Strike et when your powder's runnin' low:
If the Dons sight Devon, I'll quit the port o' Heaven,
An' drum them up the Channel as we drummed them long ago."

Drake he's in his hammock an' a thousand miles away,
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?)
Slung atween the round shot in Nom-bre Dois Bay,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.

Yarnder lumes the island, yarnder He the ships
Wi' sailor lads a-dancin' heel-an'-toe,
An' the shore lights flashin', an' the night tide dashin'—
He sees et arl so plainly as he saw et long ago.

Drake lies in his hammock till the great Armadas come,
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?)
Slung atween the round shot, listen-in' for the drum,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.

Call him on the deep sea, call him up the Saund,
Call him when ye sail th meet the foe;
Where the old trade's plyin' an' the old flag's flyin', They'll find him ware an' wakin', as they found him long ago.

—Henry Newbolt.
